OUC Celebrating Black History Month with Sen. Doug Jones

The Oakwood University Church, located at 5500 Adventist Blvd., NW, Huntsville, Ala., will conclude its celebration of Black History Month by honoring the Honorable Senator Doug Jones from Alabama on Saturday, February 23, at 11 a.m. Senator Jones will receive a Black History Achievement Award for his tireless work in fighting for justice for all people, especially in the area of voting rights, civil rights, healthcare, and education.

As an attorney, Senator Jones is best known for his successful prosecution of two Ku Klux Klan members for the 1963 Birmingham church bombing that killed four African-American girls and the indictment of domestic terrorist Eric Rudolph. In the Senate, Jones has pledged to fight to increase access to affordable health care for every Alabamian and to make sure that every child in every ZIP code has access to high-quality education.

He also fights for responsible economic development to ensure that both businesses and their employees prosper in Alabama.

Local Haley Charity Announces 'Day of Action,' Resource Expo

A Tennessee Valley nonprofit is sponsoring two key events for the month of February.

The Patricia Haley Charity, a 501c3 organization, will sponsor its "2nd Annual Benefit Banquet"

(Day of Action) on February 18, 2019, at the Historic Huntsville Depot & Roundhouse, 320 Church Street in Downtown Huntsville, from 6:30-9:30 p.m.

The Patricia Haley Charity provides a variety of support services to persons diagnosed with cancer.

The charity will also host the "Nonprofit & Community Rainbow of Knowledge Fair" on February 28, 2019, at the Huntsville Marriott (U.S. Space and Rocket Center) from 3:30-7:30 p.m.

For more information about both events, please call (256) 693-4709.

Black History Program Scheduled at Lowe's Chapel UME

The pastor and congregation of Lowe's Chapel United Methodist Church invites the community to join them as they observe Black History Month on Sunday, February 17, at the 10 a.m. service.

The Black History speaker is Molly Stewart of Mt. Moriah United Methodist Church of Valhermosa Springs, Ala.

For more information, see the church website at www.loweschapel.com or call the church at (256) 695-9104.

Lowe's Chapel United Methodist Church is located at 460 Sanderson Road, Huntsville, Ala. The pastor is Rev. Waymond K. Smith.

UTC: Daniel Brett, senior football standout at Madison Academy, signed with the Mocs of the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga on Wednesday, February 6.

Lakeside UMC to Host Survivor of 1963 Bombing

On February 18, 2019, at 5 o'clock in the evening, Lakeside United Methodist Church (3738 Meridian Street, North) will host a special event entitled "Still Standing: The Fifth Little Girl of the 16th Street Church Bombing."

The event will also honor Mrs. Sarah Rudolph, survivor of the September 15, 1963, church bombing in Birmingham, Ala. During the program, Mrs. Rudolph will share accounts of her childhood experiences, and specifically those relating to this tragic bombing.

FPC-USA to Hold Women's Day

"Celebrate the Gifts of Women" is Sunday, March 3, at Fellowship Presbyterian Church USA. The theme is "The Grace of God Has No Boundaries."

Reverend Eva Melton, pastor and organizer of Firm Foundation Church, Birmingham, Ala., will be the guest preacher for morning worship at 10 a.m. Visitors are welcome!

Epsilon Gamma Omega Target 2: Heart Health “AKA Pink Goes Red”

A long tradition for Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority is to wear the color pink, but in February members of Epsilon Gamma Omega joined millions of Americans in the fight against heart disease in women by wearing RED!

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated, is proud to join the American Heart Association in the fight against heart disease in order to improve the health of all women.

On this special day, Alpha Kappa Alpha women will take off pink and wear red for the day to raise awareness of this deadly disease and promote life changes that will increase the longevity and quality of the lives of women around the globe.

The committee provided donations of various healthy snacks, juice, and water to the Huntsville Hospital/Heart Institute and The Huntsville Hospital Foundation for family members of patients. Both organizations were presented the various snacks, juice, and water at Huntsville Hospital (Main) and the Heart Institute (3rd Floor). There were representatives from both agencies present as Dr. Cheryl R. Davis, president, presented the item donation forms with over $600 in food contributions.

Champion Game Plan for Life

“FROM BITTER TO BETTER”

Hebrews 12:14-15 says, “Make every effort to live in peace with everyone and to be holy; without holiness no one will see the Lord. See to it that no one falls short of the grace of God and that no bitter root grows up to cause trouble and defile many.”

As we celebrate Black History Month, we should all know that we as African American people have gone through some things that would make anybody bitter. As a matter of fact, we are still going through some things that can make us bitter. Today, I believe that one of the main problems that we face in the world is bitterness. For whatever reason, bitterness has a tendency to raise its ugly head and causes us all kinds of trouble. From missed calls, (sorry Saints Fans), to misunderstandings, bitterness is so prevalent today. Now we all need to understand that bitterness is caused by hurt. And, hurting people will hurt other people. But the problems come when they won't let it go. So how do we as a human race go from being bitter to being better? I believe that it can be found in this scripture. The writer of Hebrews tells us in this short passage four things that we need to do, to go from being bitter to being better. First, He says “Be at peace with everyone.” In other words, we need to pursue peace on purpose. Next, He says to be holy because God is holy. You see, we can't be hateful and holy at the same time. It just won't work. Then, He tells us to stay in God's grace because so often we may think that we can handle the bitterness that we have in our own strength, but we need God's grace to reveal our short comings. Then He tells us to not allow any bitterness to “fester” inside of us and grow. It's always better to handle something in an “infant” stage rather than when it is fully grown and hard to deal with. Because if we don't suppress the bitterness inside of us it will “come out” and cause trouble that will affect so many people. Just look at how things today have gone from bad to worst and it can all be attributed to bitterness. You know I heard someone say that “bitterness blows out the candle of joy and leaves the soul in darkness”. So as we honor Black History month, let us all work on going from bitter to better ... Stay encouraged, my brothers and sisters.

Spotlight on Our Elders ... Featuring

Mrs. Amy Lewis Draper

A lifelong resident, Mrs. Amy Lewis Draper was born in Huntsville, Ala., as one of two children of the late Mary E. Lewis and Anderson Lewis, on July 27, 1927. At 91 years of age, she is steadfast and unmovable in her relationship to her Lord and Savior and is committed to fulfilling His will.

She completed and received her License Practical Nursing (LPN) in 1971. Mrs. Draper absolutely loved nursing! She knew that she had found her true calling. Armed with this passion and a belief that she could excel even more, she enrolled at Calhoun Community College in the Registered Nursing Program in 1972. Despite her persistence, Ms. Draper was unable to complete her program due to her commitment to take care of her ill mother. But she never gave up on her dream. She later completed her course work at Huntsville Hospital to receive her Advanced LPN license.

Mrs. Draper was employed at Huntsville Hospital for 27 years, working in several departments, but her absolute favorite was working in the nursery. There were numerous times that Mrs. Draper even worked through severe winter weather. When the roads were deemed unsafe for driving, she was provided her very own personal escort service by none other than the Huntsville Police Department!

After retiring from Huntsville Hospital, she worked 12 more years as a private nurse at Carlton Cove and an additional nine years at Stewart-Wakefield Loving Home Inc.

Mrs. Draper has made it her life's mission to help others with her wisdom, humor, empathy, and to share the good news of the Gospel.

From the Editor

Ahhh, Monroeville!

If you missed "To Kill A Mockingbird" at The Playhouse, you missed a treat of excellent local talent and Alabama history. Monroeville native Harper Lee's story-line is central to a monumental literary legacy, and her hometown has no shortage of accomplishments and excellence.

Many of you have heard of Marva Collins, who grew up in Monroeville's Clausell Quarters Community. She was an educator extraordinaire. She started the Chicago Preparatory School, a school for African-American children who had been diagnosed with learning disabilities, emotional disabilities and other issues that challenged mainstream schools beyond their limits. Marva demonstrated that all children can be successful, regardless of their learning styles, disabilities or socio-economic backgrounds. When she passed away, she was considered a legend and one of Monroeville's favorite daughters.

Similarly, Cynthia Tucker left Monroe County High School after college and studied journalism at the University of Alabama. She was a successful syndicated journalist and served at the editorial page editor for the Atlanta-Journal Constitution for many years. Her late father, John Tucker, was my elementary principal and her mother, Mary Tucker, was my high school English teacher.

Dr. Prince Preyer is a son of Monroeville. He was the first African-American county commissioner in Huntsville. He served as a professor and Department Chairman of Agribusiness at AAMU. He started what is known as the "community garden" on the campus of AAMU, which is still operating today as part of District 6 of the Madison County Commission. His sister, Ann Warren, is a retired professor of Nutrition and Dietetics at AAMU. She operates a successful catering business. Actually, she catered our wedding reception at First Missionary Baptist Church 37 years ago.

The late W. A. Rice taught at Monroeville High School prior to moving his family to Huntsville to take a job with the Cooperative Extension Program at AAMU. Also, he had a successful photography business, a skill that he taught one of his sons, Carlton Rice--who is an engineer by day and photographer on evenings and weekends. His eldest son, Michael Rice, is pastor of Grace Gethsemane Mission Church and served as pastor of Hurricane Chapel Missionary Baptist Church for many years.

Commissioner JesHenry Malone and his wife, Tabitha Williams Malone, both grew up in Monroeville. A Marine, Malone is the first African-American Captain on the Huntsville Police Department's staff. He was appointed as County Commissioner by Governor Kay Ivey for District 6 when Commissioner Bob Harrison passed away last year.

My sister, Mary Rodgers Hurt, came to AAMU from Monroeville as the first person in our family to attend college. Mentored by the late Dr. Abigail Hobson in home economics, Mary served as Director of the Child Development Center, was an assistant professor in Home Economics, and worked with mentor and family friend, the late Dr. James I. Dawson to write the proposal to establish the 1890 Cooperative Extension Program at AAMU. She retired from Auburn University several years ago.

This past week, Dr. James Thompson was eulogized at First Missionary Baptist Church. A former scientist at DuPont, Thompson is credited with several patents and two chemistry textbooks. He also was a doctoral student under Nobel Laureate Richard Heck. After retiring from AAMU, he continued to write and was working on his third book. He was a trailblazer in several black chemists organization and was revered by fellow faculty members, colleagues and former students.

Even in a town where justice was denied and captured in one of literature's greatest novels, some of us managed to escape with the help of determined parents and an extra dose of tenacity and determination. This is a place where teachers were our "Sheroes and Heroes." I knew a few school principals who were African-American males; however, I had no knowledge of a black doctor, lawyer, dentist, engineer or scientist. The people I mention here are just a few of the success stories. There are scores and scores of people and stories I could share but space will not allow me to do so here.

Enjoy the rest of February. It's still Black History Month--a time of sharing and caring about the contributions of African-Americans to this country. I believe we should celebrate everyday. The more we know and care about each other, the more we can embrace and appreciate our differences. It's all good. Until next week ...

NHCUA, GHIMF Hold Town Hall

The North Huntsville Community United for Action (NHCUA) and the Greater Huntsville Interdenominational Ministerial Fellowship (GHIMF) (community groups composed of pastors, ministers, black elected officials, community leaders, and others residing in North Huntsville) recently held a town hall meeting.

The meeting was held Tuesday, February 12, at Church Street Cumberland Presbyterian Church in America.

The purpose of this meeting was to inform the public of the missions of the organizations and how they will team to assist the community in identifying issues that impact their lives and seek solutions to improve conditions.

NHCUA consists of five committees that are instrumental in impacting North Huntsville. Those committees are Education, Economic Development, Family, Political Awareness and Social Justice. The event focused on the clarification of the committees' goals and planned activities for thorough knowledge of the operations of NHCUA through its' committees.

The North Huntsville Community United for Action is Huntsville's largest community-oriented group composed of pastors, ministers, black elected officials, community leaders, parents and residents in North Huntsville.

Look Now Toward Heaven

When God said these words to Abraham, the discussion, at least from Abraham's view, was about an heir. The particular point that Abraham made was that he didn't have, not only a son, he didn't have a child at all, male or female. What God showed him, however, had nothing to do, seemingly, with children. Instead God showed him stars. That's as far a contrast as heaven and earth. (The record does show that God says that His ways and thoughts are higher than those of humans as the heavens are higher than the earth.) God could have shown him in a dream, the son that he was going to have, but instead He showed Him stars. When Abraham looked up, God said to him that if he were able to count the stars, that would be the number of his descendants and he said that to Abram (high father), before he was renamed Abraham (father of many). Could it be that the look toward heaven was the answer to Abram's dilemma? Could it be that God showed him the stars as a way to give Abraham something to see as He developed his faith?

The Bible is replete with God using visible objects to symbolize things not yet seen. He will start where we are in order to eventually get us use to looking toward heaven. Once it's a habit only a word from heaven is needed for us to act upon it.

BREAKFAST SERVED
MONDAY THRU SATURDAY
6:30AM UNTIL 11:00AM

LUNCH SERVED
MONDAY THRU FRIDAY
11:00AM UNTIL 2:00 PM

Washington in One Minute

Here are the top issues in Washington, D.C., for this week's edition.

1. The House and Senate are in session this week. The 17 bipartisan House and Senate conferees on the FY2019 Homeland Security Appropriations conference have until this Friday to reach a deal to keep the government open before temporary funding expires and Congress adjourns for next week's Presidents' Day Recess. According to multiple reports, the conferees have hit a snag over negotiating a cap on beds at immigration detention facilities, but before things broke down they were near agreement on an additional $2 billion for border security, including "barriers," which might have also included language nullifying the Trump Administration's asylum policy which forces asylum seekers to wait in Mexico while their paperwork is processed. The House, among other bills, will take up a bill to cut off U.S. support for the Saudi-led coalition fighting in Yemen's civil war ...

2. President Trump travelled to El Paso, Tex., for a rally in support of his plan to build a border wall. On Tuesday, he hosted a Cabinet meeting at the White House. On Wednesday, he hosted Colombian President Ivan Duque Marquez and First Lady Maria Juliana Ruiz Sandoval at the White House for a meeting and a working lunch ...

3. Last Thursday, Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (D-NY) and Sen. Edward Markey (D-MA) introduced a resolution in Congress, providing the goals for their "Green New Deal," which includes a bold goal of attaining 100% renewable/zero-emission power production in the U.S. in 10 years (note: the U.S. Energy Information Agency reported that in 2017 renewable energy was 11% of the nation's total energy consumption). The House bill has 67 co-sponsors. It also includes:

- Upgrading all existing building to energy efficiency standards;
- Eliminating pollution and greenhouse gas emissions in the farming sector;
- Reducing emissions in the transportation sector;
- A guaranteed family-sustaining minimum wage, and
- Quality health care for all.

4. Last Thursday in a bit of a surprise ruling, the Supreme Court voted 5-4 (with Chief Justice John Roberts joining the liberal justices) to order a stay of a Louisiana law that would have closed 2 of the 3 remaining abortion clinics in the state by requiring that doctors performing abortions have admitting privileges at nearby hospitals. The court is likely to hear a challenge to the law on the merits in its 2019-2020 term. The Louisiana law is similar to a Texas anti-abortion law that was invalidated in 2016. Newly-installed Justice Brett Kavanaugh dissented, saying that the court had acted too precipitously in finding that the other abortion doctors would not be able to gain the required admitting privileges. The case is June Medical Services v. Gee.

5. Democrats, including House Education and Labor Chairman Bobby Scott (D-VA) and Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee ranking member Patty Murray (D-WA), are insisting that the next bill reauthorizing the Higher Education Act

(HEA) be a comprehensive measure, including more aid to students, addressing college affordability and debt issues, campus sexual assault, hazing, and regulations on for-profit colleges. Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee Chairman Lamar Alexander (R-TN) stated last week that he wants to see new, comprehensive higher education legislation by the end of the year. However, he said that if his panel cannot agree on a sweeping bill, he would be willing to move forward on individual issues where there is bipartisan support. One of his biggest priorities is simplifying the form students must use to apply for grants and loans they need to attend college. Senator Alexander urgently wants to pass a new HEA bill before the end of the year since he will be retiring after 2020.

Flip-flops: OK for Beach ... but Bad for Politics, Our Lives

by tim allston

"If you don't have all the wisdom needed for this journey, then all you have to do is ask God for it; and God will grant all that you need. He gives lavishly and never scolds you for asking. 6 The key is that your request be anchored by your single-minded commitment to God.

Those who depend only on their own judgment are like those lost on the seas, carried away by any wave or picked up by any wind"
- James 1:5,6
The Voice Bible

While scientists acknowledge that beach flip-flops can be changed easily and require no tying and untying, they offer little or no foot support, cause blisters and induce lots of sweating.

Similarly, over these past two months, political flip-flops have caused lots of blisters, lacked support, and created tons of sweating.

The Flip-Flop of the Month Club

· (December) Right-wing-pressured, President Trump flip-flopped on his budget support, causing a 35-day federal government shutdown and approximately $11 billion in lost wages;

· (January) Birmingham's Civil Rights Institute invited initially native icon Angela Davis to be feted, then dis-invited her (flip), only now to re-invite her (flip); and page featured two partiers dressed each in blackface and KKK garb, Virginia Gov. Wortham acknowledged initially himself as "one of those persons," only to deny it the following day!

What the Problem here?

Why do we flip-flop politically, socially, spiritually, etc.? There's nothing wrong with changing our minds - after all, we each average nearly 2M daily thoughts, from which we make approximately 35,000 decisions.

Perhaps you and I err in ignoring our Bible text's opening line: "If you don't have all the wisdom needed for this journey, then all you have to do is ask God for it; and God will grant all that you need;"

Too often, we "politicians" hunger to please people (who can grant us neither heaven nor hell) more than to please God (who can grant us heaven!).

Tired of doing the "flip-flop"?

Follow this winning three-

step dance:

1. Like Jesus, get your early-morning marching orders from God (Mark 1:35); he did not trust even his own thoughts, plans, actions or words but, instead, submitted to "The key is that your request be anchored by your single-minded commitment to God." . . . (v.6);

2. Delay starting your day with your Facebook notifications, coffee, ESPN, MSNBC, or even stretching exercises and, instead, petition God, who "gives lavishly and never scolds you for asking" (v.5);

3. Then, avoid the "flip-flop" dance floor or, in the words of Thomas Jefferson, "In matters of style, swim with the current; in matters of principle, stand like a rock."

CAUTION: Leave the flip-flops to the beach!

Saint Bartley: Preparing for Tomorrow

by Pastor Jaymes Mooney

Management guru and author Peter Drucker once wisely stated "The relevant question is not simply what shall we do tomorrow, but rather what shall we do today in order to get ready for tomorrow." I believe that way of thinking was ingrained in the hearts and minds of our ancestors that courageously sacrificed in their present to pave ways for the future. The institutions that were built in the late 19th century and early 20th Century were not simply built as monuments for present success, but they were built as gateways to a brighter future. Considering their efforts, service, and sacrifice I believe that it is of utmost importance that we follow in their footsteps of learning from the past, working in the present, and preparing for the future.

James Weldon Johnson masterfully described how the work of the ancestors has past, present, and future implications:

"Sing a song full of faith that the dark past has taught us, sing a song full of the hope that the present has brought us, facing the rising sun of our new day begun, let us march on till victory is won."

When I was asked to write this article, it caused me to reflect on how the lessons of the past ultimately shape our progress for the future. I have the rare privilege of leading an institution whose founding extends back further than the late 19th century. The Huntsville African Baptist Church was founded in 1820 under the leadership of Elder William Harris in the Old Georgia Graveyard where the Huntsville Hospital parking lot now sits. This congregation was started in a graveyard because at the time it was the only place that Blacks could claim as their own.

The Huntsville African Baptist Church which would later be renamed as Saint Bartley Primitive Baptist Church is recognized as the Oldest African American congregation in the State of Alabama founded independently by Blacks. This congregation flourished and was a place of refuge for those who suffered great oppression and were treated as less than human. It is an institution, but more than that it is a living organism that has breathed life into citizens of Madison and Limestone County for nearly 200 years by sharing the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Records from the late 1800's show that Saint Bartley Primitive Baptist Church had a membership of over 2000 members before the turn of the century. Over its two-century history, the congregation has remained steady and stable with only nine pastors in 199 years.

In keeping with the theme of preparing for the future, our congregation is currently in the first phase of improving the current property at 3020 Belafonte Ave NW. While we had the opportunity to move out of our neighborhood, we made the conscious decision to stay in Love Subdivision/ Northwoods Homes. Saint Bartley Primitive Baptist Church has a track record of caring and ministering to those in need, and we desire to continue that work starting with our own community. We believe that we are not here simply because we were forced to move in the 60's, but we believe that God has strategically placed us here to love and uplift our community. In his book Brother West, Dr. Cornel West writes "We have to recognize that there cannot be relationships unless there is commitment, unless there is loyalty, unless there is love, patience, persistence." We are seeking to build relationships in our community that demonstrate those qualities and that will ultimately lead to transformation.

Our current building is under construction. This is the first phase of a three-phase project that will assist us in our mission of "Meeting Needs and Making Disciples." While we are making the building safer, modernizing some areas aesthetically, and updating technology, we are still being very intentional about preserving some original features of the building particularly in the sanctuary. This has only been possible because of the grace of God. Saint Bartley members have responded to that grace with sacrifice and commitment. John Maxwell was correct in his observation that "Teamwork makes the dream work, but a vision becomes a nightmare when the leader has a big dream and a bad team."

While we are under construction we have been worshipping at the Dr. Mae Jemison Theater on the campus of Dr. Mae Jemison High School. This has been a wonderful experience thus far. We have been able to connect with people who live in the direct community of the school, and it has pushed us out of our comfort zone in a positive way. We will worship there through April, and we invite you to join us Sundays at 10:00 a.m.
