A&M Hosts Board's Summer Meeting

The Alabama A&M University Board of Trustees held its 10 a.m. summer session virtually on Friday, June 26, dealing with a range of agenda items, from budget approval to a comprehensive listing of re-opening protocols for Fall 2020.

The body, led by President Pro Tem Jerome B. Williams, began the one-hour meeting by first considering a slate of action items from its Business and Finance subcommittee. That subcommittee sought and received approvals for the Bulldog Life Program (which focused on tuition-only assessment for special needs students); a flat tuition and fee schedule for the upcoming academic year; a $192 million operating budget for FY21; removal of the Old Shop Building near the campus' Old Stadium; a critical capital projects list that will be funded by state bond and advancement and technology monies to the tune of $10 million; and an Event Center easement at North Memorial Parkway and Stallworth Drive.

Under the Academic Affairs subcommittee, the Board approved the deletion of five program tracks, all under the College of Agricultural, Life and Natural Sciences.

Among the tracks were Wildlife, Ecology, GIS/Remote Sensing, Forestry Business and Tailor-Your-Own.

During her standard report, Trustee, Distinguished Professor and Faculty Senate President Jeanette Jones acknowledged the Senate's continued meetings with President Andrew Hugine, Jr., and Provost Daniel Wims on various faculty concerns via the Zoom platform, thanks to quality technical assistance. Jones further urged the administration to continue to consider the high-risk categories common among the many African Americans who make up the faculty and student body and to plan accordingly in re-opening efforts.

The Development and Technology Committee submitted recommendations for the naming and/or renaming of several structures. The Board approved the naming of the Henry & Nell

Lane Bradford Auditorium in Bibb Graves Hall (now

Buchanan Hall); the renaming of McCalep Building to the George McCalep and Ronald and Patricia McCalep McIntosh Hall; the naming of the Felicia Wilson Dining Hall in the Knight Center; and the renaming of Bibb Graves Hall to Walter S. Buchanan Hall (after AAMU's president).

The Board also amended its bylaws to include the position of vice president pro tem, as well as approved the hiring of a consultant to assist trustees in conducting a mandatory self-evaluation process.

Trustees also heard a summary from AAMU Vice President Gary Crosby of recommendations from a multidisciplinary university re-opening task force. Dr. Crosby outlined a meticulous plan of safeguards and protocols necessary prior to, during and after school re-opening. These measures included numerous sanitation actions, testing procedures, virtual training modules, etc. Further, the plan, which will be posted on the University's website and other platforms, encompasses every aspect of campus life: e.g., students, faculty, staff, vendors, housing, dining, student activities, Internet access, health, etc.

The Task Force members (as cited by Crosby) include: Michael Johnson, M.D., Student Health; Daniel Wims, provost; Clayton Gibson, senior vice president; Angela Debro, general counsel; Carlquinta Slay, Student Counseling;

Dwayne Green, Admissions; Bryan Hicks, athletics director; Dr. John Jones, Graduate Studies; Dr. Andrea Cunningham, Title III; Dr. Rhonda Moore Jackson; Brenda Williams, registrar; and Darryl Jackson, Financial Aid.

AAMU President Andrew Hugine, Jr., urged members of the University community to take personal responsibility for their health, as well as for the health of their neighbors.

President Pro Tem Jerome B. Williams introduced his "AAMU Reimagined" initiative, stating that now is an opportune time for AAMU to brainstorm and "to think about the A&M we can only imagine," an A&M replete with resources and state-of-the-art equipment.

"We must continue to think large and without financial restraints," Williams continued. "We are long overdue for having the resources that have been denied us. This is what we expect as a down payment on what we were meant to be." Dr. Williams further challenged the AAMU community to put those ideas on paper, while Dr. Archie Tucker II, AAMU vice president for marketing, communication and advancement, and Trustee Frank Williams will compile the "reimaginings" to develop white papers and proposals.

"It's critically important that we don't have any small dreams," added President Hugine. "This is a time to layout the roadmap for an A&M not limited by resources."

The Board will hold subcommittee meetings again October 28-29, and the next regular session Friday, October 30, in Birmingham, Ala.

Unforgiveness vs. 'Inforgiveness'

Matthew 18:21-35

Occasionally, God speaks even in "typos." As I sought to spell the word, "unforgiveness" I mistakenly hit the "i" instead of the "u" (which are next to each other). Instead of "unforgiveness," I spelled "inforgiveness." Of course, the usual "red line" occurred which indicates a "misspelled" word. However, the Spirit almost immediately pointed out that what was a misspelled word actually communicated what Jesus was teaching in His parable of the "Unforgiving Servant."

In the parable Jesus taught that there was a servant who owed his master ten thousand talents. He bargained and bartered with his master to give him time to pay it back. This servant faced the selling of his wife and children if the debt was not paid. The master was moved with compassion and forgave the debt. However, that same servant went out and found someone who owed him a hundred denarii. He physically grabbed him and demanded that he be paid. Word got back to his master of what he had done and his master with righteous indignation confronted him and reminded him of the compassion he had been afforded, being forgiven of the debt that he couldn't pay. As a result, he was "delivered to the torturers until he paid back everything he owed."

Jesus ended the parable by saying that God would do the same to anyone who does not, from his heart, forgive his brother or sister their trespasses. That's what inforgiveness is, forgiveness in the heart.

He enrolled in Alabama A&M University, where he earned the Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical drafting and design technology in 1968.

Upon his graduation from AAMU, Branch served briefly as a design draftsman for the Sperry Rand Corporation in Huntsville, Ala., designing PC boards, schematic diagrams and wiring harnesses for the instrument section of the Saturn V rocket.

From 1969-1972, he made topographical surveys and designed roadways, runways and drainage ponds for the U.S. Army, 160th Engineering Command, at Fort Bragg, N.C. For nearly 40 years, Branch worked in Facility Engineering preparing design drawings for electrical modifications to NASA buildings and test stand structures.

He continues to give back to his community extensively. He assisted the Girl Scouts with electrical design modifications to their building on Sparkman Drive in Huntsville, Ala.

In the 1980s, he taught technical drawing night classes for two years at his Alma Mater, Alabama A&M University. Moreover, he served on the board of AGAPE of North Alabama for two years and as speaker for the "Words of Life" religious program on WEUP AM for the past 18 years.

Washington in One Minute

Here are the happenings in Washington, D.C., this week:

1. The House and Senate are in session this week. The Senate, having last week failed by 5 votes to get cloture to proceed to Sen. Tim Scott's (R-SC) police reform bill, will spend the week on the FY21 defense authorization bill. The House, among other items, will take up the $1.5 trillion "Moving Forward Act," which will provide infrastructure funds for roads, bridges, transit systems, water systems, ports, schools, housing, and broadband access. View a section-by-section analysis of the bill here: section-by-section. The House will also take up a bill to authorize a new $100 billion Emergency Rental Assistance Program to help families and individuals pay their rent and utility bills during and after the COVID-19 crisis.

2. Last Friday, President Trump issued an executive order requiring the Justice Department to prioritize the investigation and prosecution of anyone who "destroys, damages, vandalizes, or desecrates a monument, memorial, or statue," or incites (or assists with the incitement to) violence. Earlier in the week, the President issued another executive order, continuing his April 22 ban on the granting of permanent residency for immigrants (aka "green cards"), and adding a ban on the entry of foreign workers on H-1B visas for skilled workers and L-1 visas for workers being transferred within a company through the end of 2020. The order will also block seasonal workers on H-2B visas, with an exception for foreign farmworkers. On Thursday, the President will speak at a "Spirit of America Showcase" event. On Friday, he will travel to Keystone, S.D., for fireworks at Mount Rushmore. On Saturday, July 4, the President and Mrs. Trump will host an Independence Day event on the South Lawn of the White House (although the traditional July 4th Parade has been canceled due to COVID-19 concerns, the fireworks on the National Mall will occur as scheduled).

3. On Sunday, Vice President Pence traveled to Texas to attend a Celebrate Freedom Rally at the First Baptist Church in Dallas and met with state officials to discuss the surge in coronavirus cases in the state (along with fellow Coronavirus Task Force member Dr. Deborah Birx). The Vice President canceled a planned campaign bus tour in Florida this week, due to the coronavirus surge in Florida and will instead meet with Governor Ron DeSantis and state health officials.

4. Last Thursday, Politico reported that Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin sent a letter to House Ways and Means Committee Chair Richard Neal (D-MA) agreeing to provide Congress with a full list of each entity that has received emergency COVID-related loans from the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP), which will include borrower names and loan amounts. Until Thursday, Secretary Mnuchin would only agree to publicly disclose information on loans above $150,000 (loans below $150,000 comprise 85% of the total number of loans made).

5. On Monday and Tuesday, the U.S. Supreme Court issued its final opinions for the 2019-2020 term, with major rulings expected in the following cases:

- Whether a Louisiana law requiring physicians who perform abortions to have admitting privileges at a local hospital will stand;

- Whether states may enact laws requiring its presidential electors to follow the state's popular vote when casting their electoral-college ballots;

- Whether the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau violates the separation of powers doctrine and will be allowed to exist; and

- Whether a state grand jury and congressional committees may compel President Trump to release his financial records and tax returns.

6. Last Thursday, The Washington Report reported that the Centers for Disease Control had ordered 14 times its usual order (7 million doses vs. 500,000) of influenza vaccines for fall 2020 in order to be ready for a confluence of flu and COVID-19 infections. Flu vaccine manufacturers are reported as increasing production by 10 percent to 189 million doses.

7. Last Thursday, Senators Debbie Stabenow (D-MI) and Bill Cassidy (R-LA) introduced legislation last week that would help schools and colleges with the costs of protecting students and staff from the coronavirus when buildings reopen in the fall. The Reopen Schools Safely Act, S. 4081, would establish a federal grant program at the Education Department. Governors would be able to apply for the funding and would have the flexibility to determine how to distribute the funds to local school districts and colleges. The funds could be used for any expense needed to meet the CDC and local guidelines for mitigating the virus spread, including personal protective equipment, sanitation supplies and Covid-19 tests.

8. Last Wednesday, the Democratic National Convention Committee announced that, while Joe Biden intends to accept his nomination in Milwaukee as scheduled on August 20, the 5,000 voting delegates are being encouraged to stay home and cast their votes on all convention matters, including the presidential nomination, remotely during the August 17-20 convention. Democratic National Committee standing committee meetings will take place virtually as well, with the meetings tentatively set for the last week of July.

9. Senate Races. The current makeup of the Senate is 53 Rs to 47 Ds and, to gain control, Democrats must pick up 3 seats and win the White House or net 4 seats to have a simple majority. On June 18, The Cook Political Report listed 5 GOP seats as toss ups (AZ, CO, ME, MT, and NC). On the Democratic side, Sen. Doug Jones' (D-AL) race is listed as "leans Republican," but only one other Democratic incumbent race – Sen. Gary Peters (D-MI) – is seen as competitive in the "leans Democratic" category, whereas 5 GOP seats (GA1, GA2, IA, and KS) are listed as "leans Republican."

Champion Game Plan for Life by Preston Brown

THE REASON FOR DISCIPLINE

Hebrews 12:11 says, "No discipline seems pleasant at the time, but painful. Later on, however, it produces a harvest of righteousness and peace for those who have been trained by it."

Have you ever felt God's discipline in your life and tried to understand why? Why am I enduring these hard times in my life and why do I need discipline from God? These were some of the questions that I thought about while studying this scripture. I thought back to my own life and remembered the times that my father disciplined me. It wasn't always because I did something wrong, but it was because he loved me enough and cared about me in such a way that I wouldn't do anything to harm myself or anyone else. Today, I believe that we live in a time that lacks parental discipline. The word discipline means the practice of training people to obey rules using punishment to correct disobedience. We as Christians not only need to understand the "nature" of God's discipline, but we also need to know how to respond properly to it. And, the first thing we need is a good attitude so we don't say things like, 'God is mad at me' or 'God doesn't like me.' I can remember as a father, when I disciplined my own kids, I was never mad at them. I just wanted them to do well in life.

Just like God, our heavenly Father wants all of us to "produce a harvest of righteousness and peace." The next thing we need is a submissive spirit, which means ready to conform to God's authority. When God disciplines us we need to realize that it is for our good, to bring out a good purpose for our lives. Jeremiah 29:11 says, for I know the plans that I have for you, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future. God's discipline is directed to "benefit" the believer and because He is so good He would not discipline us if it were not going to produce something good out of it. So, let us not lose heart when God is disciplining us, but let us celebrate the fact that God loves us and cares enough about us to see that we do well in all that we do... Stay encouraged my brothers and sisters...and remember you can purchase my book "A Champion Game Plan For Life" at amazon.com.

Governor Addresses Chamber Virtually

The Huntsville Madison County Chamber of Commerce hosted a Virtual Alabama Update by Gov. Kay Ivey on Thursday, June 25.

During the session, Gov. Ivey indicated that COVID-19 has evolved with unexpected results for the State, which boasted an unprecedented unemployment rate of 2.7 percent earlier this year. After three months, the unemployment rate is nearly 10 percent, with over 585,00 unemployment claims filed. To date, the Alabama Department of Labor has processed over 95 percent of those claims.

Gov. Ivey established a Coronavirus Task Force of health experts, elected officials and business leaders across the state to work with the State's Health Director on state-wide initiatives to guide the process of responding to COVID 19.

Ivey reported that her initial Shelter in Place Executive Order was a mistake because of its identification of essential and non-essential businesses.

She indicated that all businesses are essential and she did not want to select some as more important to others.

Her current goal is to work toward putting Alabamians back to work in their various businesses. The Governor is working with the Task Force and the Legislature to get the CARES funding to the people of Alabama.

She suggested working together as One Alabama with the Legislature to get legislation passed on prison reform and many economic issues.

Ivey closed with a quote by Helen Keller: "Alone we can do so little, but together we can do so much."

She summarized by indicating that state officials are working to slow the COVID 19 virus and urged Alabamians to complete the 2020 Census.

Perspectives on EGO-holism

by tim allston

America: Stop, Drop, . . . but keep on Rollin'

The man asked him, "What is your name?" "Jacob," he answered. Then the man said, "Your name will no longer be Jacob, but Israel, because you have struggled with God and with humans and have overcome." - Genesis 32:27-28 NIV

After arm wrestling all night with God, Jacob convinced "the man" that he himself had changed from his past sins. Therefore, God dropped Jacob's former identity and gave him a new name.

Just like Jacob's old identity was dropped when he confessed his past sins, increasingly American institutions are confessing their past sins and dropping their old identities.

"Dropping" Matters

Triggered by George Floyd's May 25th killing, the ensuing global outrage against police brutality and overall racial insensitivity, there have been a series of "droppings" in the U.S. lately, namely:

NASCAR (its confederate flags)

Pillsbury (Aunt Jemima pancake mix, syrup)

Mars, Inc. (Uncle Ben's rice)

Southeastern Conference (intercollegiate games in Mississippi, with its confederacy-adorned state flag)

Lady Antebellum (removing "ntebellum," to now "Lady A")

Dixie Chicks ("Dixie" from its branding)

States, municipalities (confederate statues)

Changing Lanes

These and other groups are mirroring recovering step #1 for ego-holism (addiction to self/improper self-management): to change lanes effectively, glance back quickly, before driving forward.

1. Why "change lanes"? Because your current lane won't get you effectively where you need to go.

2. Why "glance back quickly"? Turning all the way around will distract you from seeing both possible dangers and opportunities ahead. Finally and after taking those first two steps,

3. Why you'll need to "drive forward" is so that you can enjoy your benefits, opportunities and learned-lessons to share with others less motivated, yet still looking to you for role-modeling and strength.

For you to achieve success in today's "new normal," what lane(s) will you need to change, starting today?

Congratulations, America: You've Stopped, Dropped, . . . But now, just keep on Rollin'.

Welcoming the Oakwood Farms Market were Huntsville Mayor Tommy Battle, Madison County Commissioner JesHenry Malone, Huntsville City Council President Devyn Keith, Huntsville City Councilman Will Culver, Huntsville/Madison County Chamber of Commerce President Chip Cherry and other special guests.

Grand opening day offered patrons a variety of activities, free samples, and tastings throughout the event, which began at 8 a.m.

The new store is creating jobs for community members and serves as a resource to residents living in an identified food desert.

Customers can feel a sense of pride knowing patronizing the Oakwood Farms Market and its Oak Tree Bistro, means supporting university students.

The new golden structure of the Market was erected on approximately six acres with 6,110 square feet of retail space at 5001 Adventist Boulevard, in Huntsville on the corner of Sparkman Drive and Adventist Boulevard.

The store will continue to offer the array of fruits, vegetables, and herbs grown on the Oakwood University campus, but will also expand its partnerships with farmers to increase the variety of products available to its customers. The new Oakwood Farms Market will also introduce its private label products ranging from health and wellness to beverages.

“As we grow and expand our offerings to our customers, we are careful to maintain the heart of our Oakwood Farms, which is providing fresh nutrient-rich fruits and vegetables for families in our community and funding student scholarships,” said Oakwood University President Leslie Pollard.

Tennessee Valley Artist Receives National Award

Local artist and art educator John “Jahni” Moore is one of 10 artists throughout the United States to be a chosen recipient of the 2020

MOZAIK Future Art Awards.

MOZAIK is an online competition inviting artists to share a work that will “shed light on the global pandemic” and help form the imagination of alternative futures.

Over 1,100 artists answered a five-week call for artists that expired in mid-May 2020.

Winners were announced May 31, with a $2,000 honorarium paid to ten featured artists.

Moore submitted his work “E Pluribus Unum (Out of Many, One),” a two-dimensional piece with intense central color vibrancy “brought into a type of suspended animation hanging in a blue coolness.” Moore works primarily in paint and charcoal.
