UCMBC Host Site of Annual Extension Successful Aging Initiative

The Virginia Caples Lifelong Learning Institute, established under the technical guidance of the Alabama Cooperative Extension System (ACES), presents the 15th Successful Aging Initiative (SAI) in Madison County on Thursday, October 13, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Union Chapel Missionary Baptist Church, located at 315 Winchester Road in Huntsville, Ala.

The 2016 theme is "The ABCs of Aging," and Louis Colbert, vice president of operations at Philadelphia Corporation for Aging, the fourth largest area agency on aging in the nation, will be the guest speaker.

Workshops and general sessions will focus on legal, financial, health, social, and the emotional concerns of aging.

The Successful Aging Initiative is a free one-day event that is open to the public and designed to address issues impacting Alabama's older adults.

Participants obtain easy-to-understand information and resources that enable them to make informed decisions, to maintain independence, to play active roles in society, and to improve their quality of life. Older adults and family members, caregivers, and senior service providers are encouraged to attend.

A lunch will be provided in addition to free health screenings, door prizes, and other giveaways. Visit <http://www.aces.edu/urban/sai/> to register by Friday, October 7. No telephone registration will be accepted due to high attendance.

For general event information, contact Jackie Collier at (256) 372-4947 or Wendi Williams at (256) 372-4953.

Deltas Will Sponsor Free Financial Management Seminar

The Huntsville Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., will sponsor a Financial Management Seminar on Retirement Savings Plans and Understanding Credit, Credit Report, and Credit Scores.

The two-hour seminar will be held on October 22 from 10 a.m.-12 noon at the First Missionary Baptist Church, located at 3509 Blue Spring Road in Huntsville, Ala.

The event is open to the public. For additional information, e-mail Dsteconomicdevelopment@mail.com.

OU Chief Attends Presidential Task Force on Policing

OUPD Chief Melvin Harris recently became a part of the President Barack Obama's Task Force on 21st Century Policing at the White House.

The Task Force was created in response to the turmoil gripping the nation regarding the number of deaths of African Americans in police custody.

Over 300 police agencies have participated in a series of discussions to present recommendations and solutions to help law enforcement agencies and communities strengthen trust and collaboration.

"There were only a few colleges and universities represented overall, and I was particularly proud that Oakwood University was recognized," said Harris.

"It's clear that law enforcement has a long way to go to rebuild trust in our communities," he continued.

Harris also believes that Oakwood has a pivotal role to play in this time of unrest. "Oakwood's students and the OU Police Department must lead out in the local Huntsville community, and in other communities, to not only talk about the problem, but to be a part of the solution."

OUPD will now be a part of the President's Police Data Initiative that will collect and publish data on policing activities.

This level of transparency could help foster a new era of trust and safety for all citizens.

Beyoncé Making Up Show in Nashville

by Reggie Allen

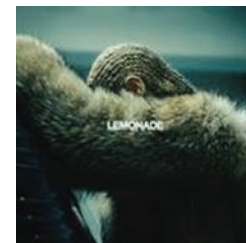

Singer-songwriter Beyoncé is scheduled to perform at the Nissan Stadium October 3. This takes place after the multi-Grammy award winner mysteriously cancelled her May 5 performance a few days shy of the scheduled date. While several reports state that the last-minute cancellation was due to the venue being under construction at the time, Beyoncé's reps have yet to release a statement as to why the show was rescheduled.

The surprising change left many of her fans in shock, but many figured that the show would receive a new date by year's end. Less than a week after the cancellation, the "Single Ladies" singer announced a second leg of her U. S tour, which included the rescheduled Nashville date.

In February, Beyoncé made headlines when she debuted a new music video-- "Formation"-- less than 24 hours before her halftime performance at the championship football game. Moments after the show, an advertisement announced the "Formation World Tour."

Months after the tour's announcement, there was no word of album until late April, when Beyoncé released a mysterious message to her fans, the Beyhive.

After teasing a cryptic special on H.B.O, the hour-long program would later be revealed as her sixth studio album and second visual album, "Lemonade."

With the U.S leg of the tour kicking off less than a week after the album was released, it was a bold move for the 35-year-old performer.

This isn't the first time the R&B singer surprised her fans with unprecedented new music. In 2013, Beyoncé released her self-titled visual album without any previous promotion. This was followed by the infamous joint "On The Run" tour with husband Jay Z.

Since the debut of "Lemonade," the album has not only garnered a generous amount of accolades and awards, but a generous helping of controversy.

A narrative of love and infidelity, many critics and fans have speculated that the album's source material mirrors the love life Beyoncé and Jay Z, both of which are known for keeping their personal life from the public eye. Throughout the tour, there have been nothing short of surprises. Recently, her dance captain, Ashely Everett, received a surprise on-stage proposal sanctioned by the Queen Bey herself. With this being her first rescheduled show, attendees might be in for a special treat.

Commissioner to Host Mental Health Initiative

In an attempt to take aggressive action toward dealing with Madison County's portion of the state's mental health crisis, Commissioner Robert "Bob" Harrison is orchestrating a community conversation and vision meeting.

The Jail Diversion Initiative is an ardent effort to meet the growing needs of law enforcement officers, emergency responders, hospital staff and mental health care advocates who are committed to offering more adequate treatment and care for those with mental illness.

There will be a special meeting of Madison County Commissioners for an open discussion and information session on October 18, 2016, at 10 a.m.-12 noon at the Robert "Bob" Harrison Wellness and Advocacy Center, 6156 Pulaski Pike NW, Huntsville, Ala.

The guest presenter for this meeting will be Leon Evans, president and CEO of The Center for Health Care Services of Bexar County, Tex. Evans will share insights and outcomes of his nationally acclaimed program.

Many state and local leaders as well as other major stakeholders have confirmed their attendance for this groundbreaking meeting.

The call-to-action that will follow is aimed at creating a task force to synergize government efforts with those of mental health agencies to best address the short and long term care needs of Madison County residents coping with mental illness and substance abuse.

Champion Game Plan for Life

You know, God has a long range plan for each and every one of us. No matter how good things are now, they can be better. No matter how bad things are now, they can get better. You see, God has only one thing in mind for your future, and that's “better”. He wants us to be better spiritually, better emotionally, and even better financially. In Jeremiah 29:11, it says:

“I know the plans I have for you, plans to prosper you and not harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.” When we partner with God and accept Jesus as our Lord and Savior, no one can stop His plan for our lives. So let us lean not on our own understanding. Trust that God has a great plan for your life.

Stay encouraged, my brothers and sisters!

Harvesting Cash Crops

Am I the only one looking at the calendar and asking where did the year go? Before I knew it, September has seemingly flown by; it is already the end of the month! We are officially in the Fall of 2016.

Fall and Spring are my favorite times of the year. The weather isn't as extreme as winter and summer, and they are the most productive seasons. Many of us are off during the summer, or use most of our vacation days, and all of the holidays are in the winter, so there is less productivity than in the spring and fall. Schools are primarily in session during the fall and spring.

Although the weather isn't quite in sync with the calendar, we are transitioning from the summer to fall.

We're entering the harvest season, a time for gathering and storing. Those in the farming and agriculture industry spend this time of year out on the farms, gathering fresh crops that have been growing from the Earth. The good food from the Earth is then stored in order to get us through the winter when there isn't much growth.

Even though we all aren't in the farms or fields, the natural habits of fall still happen. We spend this time of year mostly in our workplace, school, or other active environments.

Entrepreneurs harvest

year round. We harvest a crop called cash, which we go out in our various fields to gather resources for our community. If we are harvesting the right way, we will save the cash that we earn so that we have enough stored in case there are droughts. Saving and storing your resources is pertinent in business. As a matter of fact, the way in which you store and protect your resources can determine how you will thrive.

I recall Dorothy Wang, from the TV show “Rich Kidz of Beverly Hills,” making a statement along the
