A Good Read

by Jerome Saintjones

Lan Samantha Chang's "The Eve of the Spirit Festival"

Told from the point of view of the younger daughter of a Chinese American widower, the story touches on the intricacies of assimilation and how grief can transform itself into misdirected bitterness and anger.

The father is a lab instructor aiming for professorship who, perhaps too late, realizes he will never move up. The older daughter he loves and favors despises him and what she views as pitiful and embarrassing attempts to assimilate. Never able to cope with her father's choosing his religion over American medicine to save her mother, she leaves for Berkeley and independence.

The father later suffers from a massive stroke from which he does not recover. Culture notwithstanding, no man can serve two masters. Later generations, it would seem, must feed on the ones that preceded them. Older generations have to be willing to sacrifice in exchange for a chance to live forever.

Champion Game Plan for Life

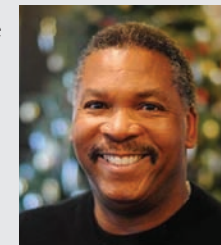

by Preston Brown

Matthew 13:27-28 says: "Sir, didn't you sow good seed in your field? Where then did the weeds come from?" An enemy did this he replied.

The other day I was pulling up weeds that had grown in my yard and my plant bed. The reason that they had grown up was that I had neglected them and allowed them to grow. You see, I didn't do what I needed to do on a daily basis or weekly basis to keep them out. When you are dealing with weeds, you have to stay on top of things or they will get out of control. The same can be said about our spiritual growth, as well. When we allow the enemy to plant weeds in our lives, it will "choke out" our growth. When we allow worry, bitterness, complaining and unwholesome talk to be planted in our lives, it ends up being like a weed that needs to be pulled up and eliminated from your life. If we don't, we won't have the beauty that God wants us to have. Since I've pulled the weeds out of my plant bed, everything is beautiful. Everything is the way that God wants it. You see, by getting the weeds out of your life, we can bring God the glory that He is worthy of ... Stay encouraged, my brothers and sisters!

We have a few special birthdays in October. Each birthday is a gift from God, so we cherish them. My mother-in-law's birthday is October 31st. Mrs. Thelma Huston will be 91 years old. Last October, we celebrated her 90th birthday with family and friends in Columbus, Ohio. Happy Birthday and Happy Halloween, Mom Huston! God's blessings to you for a wonderful birthday.

Our surrogate mom, Mrs. Rosetta James, will be 92 on that same date. God has a way to connecting us, and we never know His motives and plans. We sat on the same bench at church with Mrs. James and her late husband, Mr. McKinley James, when we moved to Huntsville in 1995. We connected immediately and have been "family" for almost 22 years. Happy Birthday and Happy Halloween, Mother James!

One of my dear friends, Michelle Watts, was also born on Halloween. We met her when I was appointed Director of Upward Bound at Ohio Wesleyan University in 1984. She was a volunteer chemistry tutor during my entire tenure there at OWU. We had the good fortune of seeing Michelle last year at Mom Huston's birthday luncheon in Columbus. She is a Soror and cherished friend. Happy Birthday and Happy Halloween, Michelle.

My dad was born on October 15th. He and my mother had 13 children. He lived a short 75 years and was murdered by a man who knew and worked for him with the farm chores. His murder was one of the biggest new stories in the State of Alabama in the New Year's Day of 1989: <http://www.prisontalk.com/forums/archive/index.php/t-17780.html>. His murderer killed him and a lady who cooked for him and cleaned his home. No one deserves to be hammered to death in a civilized society.

On October 16th, my first child, William, was born. This week, he will celebrate another birthday. He and his wife, Tu Vy, live and work in Palo Alto, California. Just knowing they are that far away creates a sense of long distance; however, we actually see them about as much as we saw them when they lived in Atlanta. Happy 31st Birthday, William! Have a wonderful birthday. We are looking forward to the holidays.

Elder Butch Damson will celebrate her birthday on October 26th. Thanks, Dr. Richard Showers, for introducing us via telephone almost eight years ago. I dodged Butch for several months, because I didn't want to meet anyone else who was seeking "my time," which was already consumed at about 24 hours per day. Happy Birthday, Butch! Dr. Charles Smoot and I look forward to our annual birthday lunch! We are blessed to know you, one of Huntsville's finest servant-leaders.

Finally, my oldest sister's God-daughter was born on October 31st. She lives out the fullest current-day festivities associated with Halloween, including an annual birthday bash, external and internal decorations, costumes, trick-or-treating with all the trimmings. Inisclee Hale just earned "Yard of the Month" by the South Hampton Subdivision Home Owner's Association in Owens Cross Roads. Congratulations and Happy Birthday, Inisclee.

And, to all of you who share an October birthday, Happy Birthday. According to my research, the etymology of the word Halloween dates back to about 1745 and unlike what we know and believe, it is of Christian origin--meaning hallowed or holy evening. So, for those of us who thought it was about tricks, treats, and wickedness, that can not be the case. To set it straight, I simply know too many good people associated with Halloween for it to be anything but goodness.

One final note, October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Congratulations to the Liz Hurley Ribbon Run and the Kimberly Fails Jones Foundation for successful annual venues that bring awareness to this dreaded disease. I had my mammogram this year. I encourage all women to get yours. It is necessary to conquer and stomp-out the devil. We are winners! Get it done.

Until next week ...

Dorothy

Alabama's Largest Cities Make Top 50 for Retirement

Looking for a place where your retirement nest egg will go a long, long way?

Then chances are that any of Alabama's top four largest cities will be a great bet for you in terms of affordability, amenities and atmosphere, according to GoBankingRates, in a recent survey to form its list of the Top 50 places for retirees.

Think of all of the cities in the United States alone. Thus, making the cut among any list's Top 50 is, to paraphrase former Vice President Joe Biden, a big freaking deal.

Coming in at No. 43 is the Rocket City of Huntsville, Ala., which requires about $41,821 to live comfortably with reasonable housing and health care cost.

Mobile, Ala., is No. 20, requiring only $38,389 to live well, while Montgomery, Ala., is No. 10 with $36,971.

The most affordable place in the nation for retirees is No. 1, Birmingham, Ala., the Magic City, where only $33,219, is needed to live comfortably.

MAYHEM IS EXPENSIVE. ALLSTATE IS NOT.

Calhoun Students Kick Off Drive for Homeless

The Calhoun Warhawk Student Ambassadors are gearing up for their 3rd Annual Winter Drive. Each year, Calhoun's Ambassadors and the North Alabama Coalition for the Homeless (NACH) collect winter items for those in need during the winter months. The official start to the event was Monday, October 2 and it will continue through Friday, October 27.

With freezing temperatures during the winter months in North Alabama, keeping warm is a challenge, especially for those that are homeless. Even during winter days, the wind and cold temperatures still don't let up.

The Warhawks are seeking help from the local community to assist in spreading the gift of warmth. While blankets are great items to donate, the NACH has a large shortage on other winter items such as gently used winter jackets, gloves, and scarves, in all sizes.

All donated items will be compiled and delivered to the NACH office in Huntsville at the end of the month.

"Words cannot express how proud I feel as a sponsor to these students. This is their annual fall charity event, and they absolutely love it. It is so encouraging to see them decorate the boxes and go out into the community to request winter items," commented Sherika Attipoe, Warhawk sponsor. "These students truly embody selfless service to those less fortunate in our community, and it is encouraging to see our younger generation to possess such a positive trait."

Donations will be accepted at Calhoun's Huntsville Campus, 102 Wynn Dr. NW, Huntsville, Ala., in the Student Center and on the Decatur Campus, 6250 Hwy. 31 North, Tanner, Ala., in the Student Center and Math, Science and Administration building lobby.

For more information on the Winter Drive, please contact Sherika Attipoe at (256) 306-2560 or visit www.calhoun.edu/winter-drive. Persons interested in volunteering, donating or partnering with NACH should visit www.nach-cares.org. All donations are tax-deductible.

Comedian Dies Prior to Huntsville Performance

Famed comedian Ralphy May passed away on Oct. 6, days before his scheduled show in Huntsville. He was 45.

May was scheduled to perform at the new Stand Up Live comedy club Wednesday, October 11, but succumbed to cardiac arrest last week in Las Vegas.

In a statement from his publicist, May was already suffering from a six-week case of pneumonia which led him to previously cancel a month's worth of shows. However, it appeared that he intended to move forward with his Alabama and Ohio stops.

The Tennessee-born jokester rose to fame as the runner-up on the first season of "Last Comic Standing" and made appearances on "The Wayne Brady Show", "For Da Love of Money" and "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno."

During his career, May recorded four specials with Comedy Central and two with streaming service Netflix.

May was married to fellow comic Lahna Turner and had two children.
